Wendy Hopkinson, Principal

Parsons Child Program is a multiservice early childhood center for children ages 3–5, located at the Parsons Early Learning Center at 125 Bigelow Avenue in Schenectady. There are five classrooms including three integrated classrooms (special education and regular education combined), one self-contained classroom, and one day-care classroom. Each classroom is staffed with a highly trained teacher and assistant. Special education classrooms include highly trained special education teachers. Staff follow a developmentally appropriate curriculum to ensure quality care and learning is achieved. Children are screened for social and emotional issues as well as for developmental issues. The program refers children to appropriate services as needed.

EARLY HEAD START

Early Head Start is a federally funded program for families who are pregnant or have children up to age 3. The Center is Accredited by the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC). There is both a home visiting component and a center base (day-care) component. Program staff help parents with the changes and needs of their family that come along with having a small child. The parent learns ways to help their child meet all milestones, including helping the family ensure the child is healthy, developmentally on target, and ready for the world. School readiness, including literacy, is a major component of the Early Head Start program.
